I have a view that contains 4 UIImageViews. They are all in random places on the screen but the user knows where they are. When the user taps a UIImageView, I want to know what image they tapped on, so I can perform a segue and show another screen depending on which UIImageView they tapped. I can manually do it by making 4 UIImageView subclasses and each of them have a unique tag property, but I would prefer to find out which UIImageView I tapped on from the one I tapped on. How would I do this? I was using UITapGestureRecognizer as well as UITapGestureRecognizerDelegate protocol but neither seemed to work. Thanks A: Have you tried UITapGestureRecognizer? Maybe try this - (void)viewDidLoad { [super viewDidLoad]; UIImageView *image1 = [[UIImageView alloc] initWithImage:[UIImage imageNamed:@"image"]]; 6d1f23a050
